

Family of Hoarders Seminar Series

If you have had trouble understanding why your loved one keeps filling the house with seemingly useless and worthless things and seems totally unwilling to let anything go, why not put an end the constant threats and fights over your hoarding loved one's stuff and embark on the healing road to a better future?

IF THIS IS THE OPPORTUNITY YOU'VE BEEN WAITING FOR,

REGISTER TODAY !

Who: Peninsula Community Services, a non-profit organization that has provided help for hoarders for more than 30 years, is sponsoring this seminar series to be held at Mills Health Center in San Mateo.

The seminar series will be led by professional therapists with specialized training and experience in the treatment of persons with compulsive hoarding disorders.

What: A series of six, two-hour sessions designed to give family members of people who hoard an opportunity to learn, share, and find support as they face the impact of a loved one's hoarding behavior.

When: The opening session will held on Thursday, October 6, 2011 at 5:30-7:00 pm. The remaining five sessions will be held on the first and third Thursdays on the month during the same time period.

Where: Mills Health Center 100 S. San Mateo Drive, San Mateo

Cost: The registration cost for the seminar series of 6 sessions is $300. Checks should be made payable to PCS and should be mailed to P.O. Box 90, Burlingame, CA 94011 no later than September 30th
